

SUPERVISORY MANAGEMENT ANALYST, GS-0343-14

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE

CRIMINAL DIVISION

OFFICE OF INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS

WASHINGTON, DC

15-OIA-JG-023

CLOSING DATE: AUGUST 25, 2015

#107,325 - #139,523

About the Office: The Office of International Affairs (OIA) plays a unique role within the Department of Justice and the U.S. Government -- through foreign and U.S. legal proceedings, the implementation of law enforcement treaties, arrangements, and practices, and direct collaboration with U.S. and foreign diplomatic, prosecutorial and law enforcement officials -- in securing the broadest measure of cooperation between the United States and other countries in the investigation and prosecution of criminal offenses. As a practical matter, OIA's responsibilities focus on two key aspects of criminal trial practice: securing the apprehension and lawful return of international fugitives and the trans-border gathering of evidence for criminal cases. OIA is the sole entity authorized to invoke, on behalf of U.S. prosecutors, the U.S. mutual legal assistance (evidence gathering) treaties (MLATs), and to utilize those treaties and U.S. statutory authority to execute foreign evidence requests. OIA plays a similar role with respect to international extraditions and the legal proceedings here and abroad that process entails. To this end, OIA advises federal, state, local, and foreign prosecutors and law enforcement agents regarding the available legal and treaty mechanisms to lawfully return fugitives or secure evidence in a particular case, and then partners with those counterparts to prepare the legal documentation required for judicial proceedings in the United States or a foreign jurisdiction. In addition to these case-specific functions, OIA is responsible, along with the Department of State, for representing the United States in negotiating bilateral and multilateral law enforcement treaties, for briefing and advising the Attorney General, Deputy Attorney General, Assistant Attorneys General, and other senior Department officials on international issues, and for representing the Department on senior inter-agency working groups and in bilateral and multilateral meetings on issues of transnational law enforcement cooperation. OIA's work requires a high degree of coordination with officials of the State Department and foreign governments, including interaction with officials at senior levels on matters involving sensitive law enforcement matters that could impact the foreign relations and strategic interests of the United States.

Responsibilities and Opportunities Offered:

As a Supervisory Management Analyst, you will:

- Design a frame-work to centralize the MLAT functions in OIA that aligns the gathering and exchange of information between the United States and its foreign partners for the purpose of enforcing criminal laws;
